

The Turquoise Coast: Along the Lycian Way

Explore the fascinating history of the Lycian culture.

Dr Christopher A. Tuttle

The Turquoise Coast: Along the Lycian Way

presented by Dr Christopher Tuttle

For some 2,000 years, the ancient Lycian people controlled a huge area along a 1,000 km stretch of the southwestern coast of Asia Minor. During their long history, they built complex city-states, developed a distinct form of democracy, evolved unique art and architecture, controlled their region of the sea, and even became feared pirates. In this two-part series, we will explore the fascinating history of the Lycian culture and explore the ruins of some of their once-great cities and those of some of their neighbours such as Arykanda, Sagalassos and Termessos.

Part I: The Lycians

https://youtu.be/EgBx8KCyO_Q

Part II: Stroll through Lycia, Pamphylia, Pisidia, and Caria

<https://youtu.be/eD-nkpcXmpQ>

Dr Tuttle has presented numerous illustrated talks for ASA about the Middle East's ancient kingdoms and the regions he visits on his tours. Please visit his page to see some of his other entertaining presentations.

